I believe in the power of the entrepreneur and of business to lift people out of poverty. The Seed internship provided a unique opportunity to work alongside an entrepreneur in the developing world to address some of the economic challenges facing the population there.”

MUHAMMAD MUSTAFA,
MS, MANAGEMENT, ’17, NIGERIA
THIS IS NO ORDINARY INTERNSHIP
It’s an extraordinary opportunity to explore, engage, learn, and lead. To gain hands-on work experience in a developing or emerging economy. To immerse yourself in a new culture. To make an impact.

Seed is an exciting Stanford GSB-led initiative working to end the cycle of global poverty. As a Seed intern, you can contribute directly to a company’s future, its growth, and job creation.

SUMMER 2018
SEED INTERNSHIP

WHO: Stanford undergraduate and graduate students who are curious, eager, and inspired to make a difference.
WHAT: Paid summer internship at a Seed Transformation Program company—a locally owned small to medium sized company that has engaged with Stanford Seed to help grow and scale their business.
WHEN: Summer 2018 for 8 – 10 weeks. Shorter internships may be available.
WHERE: Various countries in West Africa, East Africa and India.
HOW: Learn more and apply at seed.stanford.edu Application goes live on January 8, 2018; deadline is February 6, 2018.

Seed provides a stipend to cover roundtrip airfare, living expenses, accommodations, visas, vaccinations and other necessities.

FOR MORE INFORMATION CONTACT
DAN ZUSSMAN
dzussman@stanford.edu | 650.725.8914
SEED.STANFORD.EDU